THINKING OUT LOUD

By H. M. L.

Recollections of the Glorious Fourth in other years swarm across the mental screen of many an oldster as he views the forest of whiskers that is now invading our city streets. There was a time, fifty years ago, when whiskers were normal and upstanding women took as much pride in their "providers" adornament as they did in their shining pots and pans. Indeed a man who did not wear the badge of manhood upon his coutenance was considered effeminate.

We recall the marching ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic heading down State Street in Santa Barbara until they met the ocean and headed back again. And in those days they marched in perfect alignment. However much they may have shirked "regimentation" in preparation for war with the "Johhny Rebs" be sure their deportment on Fourths of July before the home folks was militarily correct to crossed t and dotted i.

And how the old Eagle screamed in the "literary" exercises that followed the parade. Each speaker drew forth the "bloody shirt" and waved it until chills of ecstasy ran up and down the spines of little boys who heard them. Those were the days of immaginative oratory, with many Yankee improvements upon the Latin masters. Often in the stately measures of Cicero would occur a mixed metaphor, but what of it. A man entranced by his own voice could not be bothered. And in any event only his patriotic peers on the rostrum would notice it.

In those days the bearded faces far outnumbered the smmoth shaven. Strong men concealed their emotions beneath impenetratable mass of whiskers. Since men have discarded whiskers it may noted, poker playing has lost much of its zest. A politician addressing his followers wagged his whiskers as well as waved his arms. The whisker gesture was very important. Oratory lost something vital when fashion tabooed the beard.

In those days each whisker grower was an individualist. He did not like his whiskers to look like any other whiskers. He was himself. He did not wish to be an imitation of some great man with famous whiskers. His His whiskers were his coat of arms, so to speak, one and indivisible with his personality. They were something for his offspring to treasure in memory long after he was dead. Many and many a child never saw the true face of his sire. And in some cases perhaps ti was just as well.

We are reminded of the long and honorable history of whiskers by the day by day view of the crop now growing along our streets. The various types of facial embellishment which our resourceful young and men are slowly maturing for the Glorious Fourth interest us mightily. We are sympathetic with the endeavors of all men for such as they may fall short of the beards of relatively modern times and of antiquity, we are bound to admire this resurgence of the beard, even if it is a puny and distorted thing compared to the magnificence of Father Abraham and Santa Claus.

It is undoubtedly impossible to recapture the spirit of the Forty Niners without duplicating in so far as possible their whisker disguises. And these two cities, that still tread the same stones the Argonauts trod, are determined this Fourth of July to recapture for a day or two the old spirit of our gold seeking forefathers.

FISHING IN TAHOE GIVES GOOD RETURNS

Continued good weather has brought the Truckee River up during the past week with the result that the waters are swift and roily. Most of the fishermen have had but fair results and grubs and angleworms have been the main lures.

Lage Tahoe appears to be the bright spot in the fishing conditions in this area. Since the opening day some good catches have been made with both deep and top lines with minnows being the favorite bait.

Donner Lake and Boca reservoir have brought only fair results to date.

The most recent survey conducted by the Nevada Cooperatice Snow Surveys indicates an ample supply of water this season for the various lakes and streams of this area.

The Truckee Outdoor Sportsmen are drawing attention of all fishermen to the new trout regulations made effective by the California Fish and Game Commission for this season, which reads as follows:

Unless otherwise provided in the fish and game code, not more than 15 trout or 15 Rocky Mountain whitefish or 15 trout and Rocky Mountain whitefish in the aggregate nor more than 10 pounds of trout nor more than 10 pounds of Rocky Mountain whitefish nor more than 10 pounds of trout and Ricky Monntain whitefish in the aggregate and 10 lbs. of trout and Rocky Mountwhitefish may be taken or possessed in any way.

NOTICE TO WHISKERINOS

The Nevada City Nugget postpones announcement of the names of judges to make the awards of $5 each for five different varieties of whiskers that bloom in Nevada County on July Fourth, 1946. The time of making awards is also held in obeyance, pending the pleasure of the Fourth of July committee, which is itself offering prizes totaling $50 for whiskers that command popular attention and respect. It is tentatively proposed to employ an applause meter to gauge the virtue and beauty of whiskers exhibited, rather permit any upright citizen making the supreme sacrifice, at least of his reputation for probity, in judging the whiskers of his fellow men.

FINNEGAN TALKS ON MILITARY LAW

Frank G. Finnegan city attorney for Nevada City addressing the Grass Valley Lions Club gave a review of army court martial procedure.

Finnegan served as an officer during the war in the Judge Advocate General Department and was judge advocate at Camp Beale for several months. He was introduced by the program chairman, Ray Scott.

Finnegan stated that military law was based on the articles of war, first conceived in 1775. They preceded the U. S. Constitution. The articles cover the conduct of officers and enlisted men and provide for military criminal procedure. He described the differences in foundation, procedure sentences imposed in the primary summary court, the special court and the general court, which has the power of imposing the extreme penalty. Decisions of all courts are subject to review by commanding officers and in the general court in case of the sentence of death or dismissal the president must sign the sentence.

ENGLE VOTES TO SEND LUMBER TO RUSSIA

WASHINGTON, May 9—A move to save $200,000,000 worth of lumber, farm equipment and other material still being sent via lend lease to Russia and other foreign nations was opposed recently in the house by some California Democrats.

According to the Congressional Record the move was defeated when 143 Republicans and four Democrats were outvoted by 170 Democrats.

California Democrats who voted to continue lend lease spending were: Franck R. Havenner, 4th district; Clair Engle, 2nd; George P. Filler, 6th; Alfred J. Elliott, 10th; George E. Otuland 11th; Jerry Voorhis, 12; Ned R. Healy, 13th; Ellis E. Patterson 16th; Clyde Doyle 18th; Harry R. Sheppard 21st; and Ed V. Izac 23rd California Democrats who failed to vote included John H. Tolan, 7th and Helen Grahagan Douglas, 14th.

Carl Hinshaw 20th District Republican voted to prevent the $200,000,000 being spent for further lend lease shipments.

During the debate one Republican spokesman pointed to shortages particularly affecting veterans and farmers, and said: "under such circumstances it is difficult to justify continued shipment abroad of these scarce commodities under the lend lease act, especially in view of the fact that the president terminated operations thereunder on August 17, 1945."

Democrats said materials still being shipped including $180,000,000 worth earmarked for Russia, were for supplies ordered prior to the president's August order. They favored permitting foreign nations to buy the still undelivired material on 50 year notes drawing 2 3-8 per cent interest. Republicans charged the administration was using the "prior order pipe line" as a subterfuge for "post war lend lease" and pointed out that U. S. veterans are charged 4 per cent interest on loans.

JUST WONDERIN'

I wonder if the friends we make
As through the days we go,
Are truly dear to us those
We loved long, long ago.
We often say, "old friends are best,"
but this we should not say,
Intill weve learned the worth of those Whom we have made today.

We were speaking of friendship, the lady caller and I, recalling the names of friends in common, whom we have known for many years and telling of new friends whom we have learned to prize during more recent times; suddenly my visitor said,—

"I have very little interest in making new friends; I shall devote my time from now on, to the cultivation of old friends."

Now, at first blush, that might seem like a laudable sentiment; but it really isn't. The person who shuts his heart to new friends and the establishment of new friendships, is robbing himself of much that might brighten and enrich his own life an voiding his own talent for bringing happiness into the lives of others.

We have been told upon many occasions that, "old friends are best," and if we are wise, we will cling to our old friends, as Robert Louis Stevenson would say "without capitulation. "but the making of a new friend is an adventure which we can by no means afford to miss. A new character to explore, new view points to share, new pathways to discover in the light of a lamp in the hands of another, these are but a few of the many delights which we are almost sure to find in a new and congenial friendship. We should open our hearts to these new experiences of the spirit and welcome the making of a new friend as one of life's most pleasurble experiences.

May is the month of memories; the return of spring in all her lovliness, recalls many another spring and through the sights and sounds of this new May, we see and hear the joyous days of old and stand, as it were, in the presence of those who shared them with us and doubled our pleasure by their dear companionship.

Many are the shrines upon which we place our tributes of memory; and of course, the day dedicated to mother, is the most lovingly tender one of all. Mother was our very first friend and the light of her devotion never flickered like a wind blown candle it shone over us always like a golden beacon set upon a hill.

Yes, mother was our friend from the very beginning of our earthly existence. Father might have looked askance at the bit of humanity introduced to him as his son or daughter, and wondered vaguely if he could ever feel proud of the small and rather unpretentious stranger! but mother loved us spontaneously and in her loving eyes were at once altogether beautiful, lovable and greatly to be desired.

And so, upon a day in May, we wear our carnations for the living and for the dead and kindle the incense of deep devotion upon the sacred shrine which bears the name of mother.—A. Merriam Conner.

Good Trees and Good Taverns

About the finest stand of timber in our county is on Asa Fullmore's farm. Asa says it's due to "regulation"—checking on trees that don't come up to standard, and trimming them off to give the other trees a chance for healthy livelihood.

He was explaining it to us in Andy Botkin's Garden Tavern, and Andy nodded approvingly.

"The same goes for any industry," says Andy. "Like the brewers who give us tavern keepers beer to sell. If they find the place isn't up to standard—clean and courteous and wholesome—they start giving warning. Then, if the warning isn't heeded, they start trimming!"

From where I sit, self-regulation within the brewing industry has done as much to give us pleasant, wholesome places to enjoy a moderate glass of beer, as Asa Fullmore's forestry has done to keep his white pines tall and healthy. It's nature's own protection—and the best there is!

Uncle Sam Says

About this time of year, we hunger for a sight of green sprouts and the first signs of a plentiful fall crop. I am visiting my nephew, Farmer John, in Iowa. John's seeds produce the golden corn we all love. John is also planting financial seeds. These seeds are United States Savings Bonds. Savings Bonds grow to golden hue. Every city worker also can plant and nurture these seeds.

Average Cut in Cost of Natural Gas 33%

Average Cut in Cost of Electricity 16%

since 1939

Today, almost everything you buy for your home costs more. The one important exception is the gas and electric service which does so much of your housework and supplies light and heat as needed. While average living costs have risen 35 per cent and more, the cost of BOTH gas and electricity has gone DOWN despite wartime conditions. Today, P. G. and E.'s gas and electric rates, long among the lowest in the entire country, are lower than ever before. The average cost of natural gas for domestic use, has dropped 33 per cent since 1939 and the cost of electricity for home use has gone down 16 per cent. Rate reductions in the past year alone represent annual savings to customers of $7,490,000.

Our rates have been cut in the face of the soaring cost of providing gas and electric service...service that is unfailing and adequate. In 1945, provision for taxes amounted to thirty cents of every dollar of our revenue, yet the average P. G. and E. bill for gas and electric service in San Francisco, for example, was lowest among fifty-one principal cities...including those subsidized by government and tax-exempt...in the United States.
